

Gradient descent moves the weights against the gradient of the loss.

If the learning rate is too large, training can diverge and the loss explodes.